

Angry

I don't think that anyone at the school has a right to punish me.

Apathetic

I don't care about consequences.

Cautious

My choices are strongly influenced by whether or not I expect to "get caught."

Committed

I set goals and take steps toward them. What I do now helps to shape my future.

Confident

I see myself as a capable person who can learn, achieve, and contribute.

Controlled

When I make a choice, I think mainly about what other people want me to do.

Diligent

I live my life “by the book.” If I know a rule, I’ll follow it.

Disrespectful

I don’t have to cooperate when I’m told what to do.

Empathetic

I resist the urge to be self-centered. When I choose my behavior, I think about the rights, and feelings of others.

Fair

I see two sides in a relationship. When I am given privileges, I act responsibly in return.

Forgiving

When I make a mistake, I try to learn from it and move on. I don't try to blame others for my actions.

Gracious

I don't take others for granted. I appreciate what I am given.

Gratified

My self esteem grows when I own a victory.

In other words, I feel proud when I accomplish something on my own.

Guilt-Free

“Since everyone else does it, why shouldn’t I?”

Guilty

I feel sorry when my actions cause harm to others.

Impulsive

I do whatever I want at the moment.

Independent

I think about my choices and I am prepared to defend them.

Inspiring

As others get to know me, they see the world as a better place. I am a good example.

Invisible

I'm not hurting real people when I break the rules of the AUP.

Lazy

I look for the easiest way out.

Loved

Other people care about me.

Loyal

Helping my friends is more important than any rule.

Mature

I sometimes make sacrifices. I know that when I “delay gratification,” I can look forward to greater benefits later.

Morally Strong

I stick to my positive values even in tough situations.

Reliable

I'm consistent. You can count on me to make honorable choices.

Respectful

I honor authority. I don't discriminate against or demean others.

Responsible

I do what is expected of me—even without supervision.

Self-Serving

I'm willing to take a risk and even hurt others if I think I will gain something by it.

Sneaky

I am good at hiding my actions when I break the rules.

Superior

Rules are good for other people, but they don't apply to me.

Trustworthy

I would not hesitate to have others know about my behavior and choices. I have nothing to hide.

Uninformed

I don't really know what's expected of me. That means I'm not accountable, right?

A User

I'll manipulate people and circumstances so that I come out on top.

Weak

I'm a little insecure about "who I am." I often copy the behavior of someone I admire.
